Dear Ms. Bui,

I am considering attending a one-on-one wellness retreat in Palm Springs in the near future as part of my effort to rebuild my life and support my wellbeing through what has been a challenging period. Planning on leaving tomorrow morning which is Sunday November 2 until the 4th lands on Tuesday. I've already arranged for the children to be with dad for the time we communicate through family wizard, if that's okay and hopefully it would be since i've already covered expenses, how would I write this on Wizard?

Before making any decisions, I wanted to ask your professional opinion:

Would attending this retreat and being out of town for a brief period pose any risks or complications for my case, especially regarding court hearings, filing deadlines, or communications?

Are there any steps I should take or precautions to address from your end if I decide to proceed, to ensure my participation does not negatively affect my legal process or responsibilities as your client?

Your advice would be greatly appreciated

Nuha
