Mr. Jones,

I'm attaching copies of the trust transfer deed and the letter with instructions which were included with your mother's final documents back in 2008. The originals of these documents were mailed to her with the other estate planning documents. I do not file trust transfer deeds for my clients, instead I prepare the deed and instruct clients on how to file with the appropriate county recorder.

If the county shows that the deed was not recorded into trust and your mother is on title instead of the trust, then a correctory deed will not resolve the situation. You will need to consult with a probate attorney who practices in your mother's county to determine what remedies are available to you.

Regards,
