My intended response

Subject: Clarification re: business entities, communications, and allegations of “holding out”

Nuha,

I received your email. For the record, and to avoid any confusion, please note the following:

1. Website status / Yelp public listing (done prior to today's email)

- www.thefoxxfirm.com was taken down well before your message today and was not prompted by any threats or the 48-hour demand stated in your email.
- The Yelp listing reflecting "Permanently Closed" was also in place well before your message today. I am attaching the Yelp screenshot for reference.

2. Prior State Bar complaint resolved

- Your prior complaint to the State Bar regarding this same issue was investigated and resolved/closed.
- I am attaching the State Bar closure letter confirming the matter was closed.

3. The Foxx Firm Agency is marketing/events only (formed after separation; no accounts)

- The Foxx Firm Agency was formed as a marketing and events company after we separated.
- It does not provide, advertise, or offer legal services.
- It does not yet have any bank account, financial accounts, or operating financials.
- The website is currently being rebuilt and will be relaunched under www.thefoxfirm.com for marketing/events services only.

4. Separate entity / website

- A separate website/entity is thealtadena.org.

5. Social media update (done prior to today's email)

- My social media presence, including @freddysayegh, was updated/scrubbed well before your message today to remove references that could be misconstrued, and was not prompted by any threats in your email.

6. Legacy email address / no “holding out”

- The email address freddy@thefoxxfirm.com is a legacy email used for continuity with existing accounts and communications and does not constitute holding myself out as an attorney.
- I have used this legacy email to correspond with both the State Bar Office of Chief Trial Counsel and my State Bar probation officer, and neither has raised any concern regarding use of that legacy address.
- At no time have I practiced law, represented that I am authorized to practice law, or marketed/advertised legal services during any period of suspension.

7. Green Holdings Group is defunct and non-operational

- As you are well aware, Green Holdings Group is defunct and not an operating business. It does not exist as an active enterprise, has not conducted ongoing operations, and has never generated revenue. It has not provided, offered, or marketed legal services.

8. Secretary of State filing / banking limitation due to court orders

- I have attached the Secretary of State filing for your reference.
- I have sought to close The Foxx Law Group bank account; however, on advice of counsel, and due to the current restraining order and related court restrictions, I am not permitted to make or implement major financial decisions absent a court order. We intend to request the necessary court authorization at the January 14 hearing.

9. Tax filings finalized / permanent wind-down / successor marketing entity

- All tax filings have been finalized in anticipation of permanently winding down and closing the former law-firm entity.
- Going forward, The Foxx Firm Agency is intended to be the successor entity in name/branding only (i.e., the “heir apparent” to the prior branding), operating exclusively as a marketing and events company, and it will not offer, provide, or advertise legal services.

10. Altadena Coalition (no accounts / no revenue)

- For additional clarity, The Altadena Coalition does not currently maintain any bank accounts or financial accounts and has not received any funds or revenue.

Counsel / future communications

I am represented by counsel. Please direct any further communications regarding these allegations, or any threats of reporting, to my attorney:
